WELCOME TO NEW ANGELES!

On behalf of the fine folks at Fenghuang, thank you for purchasing the New Angeles Tour Guide app! Now with interactive map control and personalized smartspec integration.

This supplement is meant for GMs and players alike. Each page covers one district or location detailing a medley of information. In order, the New Angeles Tour Guide covers a description of what the district or location is known for, places of interest within the district, item rarity variances, factions of interest, and finally the cost of living in the area.

The description can be used as a reference guide of sorts for GMs creating an adventure on the fly or possibly to help PCs fill in a backstory. Every listing includes a few places that may be of interest to anyone living in or visiting the location. Continuing onward, each district contains a modified rarity chart. After all, not every location in New Angeles has exactly what you're looking for! Factions of interest for each location are covered showing players and GMs which groups may be common in the area. And finally, the costs of living. These charts show how much it costs for a certain social class to live in the district or location. The higher the number, the more difficult (and therefore more luxurious) it is for said class to live.

ITEM RARITY MODIFIERS

As mentioned above, not every location will have every little thing a PC or NPC may be looking for. This is why we have introduced Item Rarity Modifiers. These modifiers are meant to modify the rarity of a type of gear to thematically fit the area of New Angeles in which a player or NPC is searching. For example, Rabotgorod is known for its industrial facilities and anti-simulant residents. This leads to an overabundance of dumb weapons (or weapons lacking in sophisticated electronics) and a shortage or even hatred towards smart weapons. The Item Rarity Modifiers will change the existing rarity value of a given item or gear category. Thus making it easier or more difficult to find said product.

Keep in mind, though, that the GM has the power to change these values even further depending on the adventures that have been created. Furthermore, all of the rarity rules starting on Page 82 of the Genesys Core Rulebook still apply - meaning a rarity modifier cannot modify an item's value below 0 or above 10.

COST OF LIVING

Living in New Angeles isn't cheap. No matter where you live, or what social class you belong to, you're going to need to spend some credits to make it to tomorrow. The Cost of Living tables on each page show an abstracted value of credits that must be paid to live at the desired social tier for a given amount of time. This is meant as an amalgamation of the costs to eat, drink, sleep, etc for a given district of New Angeles. The lower these numbers are, the easier it is for someone to live comfortably in that area. The Cost of Living charts are by no means the income of the area but rather what it might cost to stay there; whether temporarily or permanently. As with many other things, the GM may alter these value depending on other situations. For example, a ristie PC may not be welcomed in some of the seedier areas of the undercity and therefore, prices might be artificially increased. After all, any Disenfranchisto knows a ristie can afford to stay in the undercity - may as well take advantage of the larger credaccount.

How may I help?

FAVORS OF LIVING

Not everyone can afford or has access to the Titan Transnational Credit and therefore must rely on the favor economy to live. With GM approval, a PC may indebted themselves a favor to help lessen the cost or replace it entirely.

CHAKANA

The vast majority of the district among the Andes is taken up by the New Angeles Space Elevator (Jack's Beanstalk). The bulk of residents here are employed by Weyland Consortium to make sure the Beanstalk runs as efficiently as possible. Besides the occasional local riff-raff, crime is generally low on Plaza level and above. Eastside Chakana, however, began as a subdistrict of warehouses, dormitories, and kitchens to house and feed workers while building the Beanstalk. Now it's a desolate mishmash of repurposed structures, networks of scaffolding, and hand made bridges and stairways over the ground level streets.

THE ROOT

This massive carbosteel behemoth is composed of Earth Station Terminal embedded deep in the rock of Volcán Cayambe and topped by The Plaza del Cielo. Tourists around The Root can use holographic direction arrows, PAD apps, or the occasional New Angeles Transit Authority officer to find their way to their destination.

THE PLAZA DEL CIELO

Perched atop the Root, The Plaza del Cielo, or "Sky Square", is a refreshing change to the crowded nature of the Root. Its full enclosure protects travelers from the harsh cold and the thin air of this elevation. At the center of the Plaza sits Earth Station, the busiest (and most secure) port on the planet.

EASTSIDE TENEMENTS

Sloping down the eastern side of Volcán Cayambe is Eastside, the nearby contrast to its extravagant sister subdistrict. Most of the residents here work low-income or even illegal jobs. Numerous locations throughout the subdistrict cater to the less-than-desirables living in this Undercity level.

ITEM RARITIES

Security is incredibly high in Chakana, whether on or off Root. Because of this, most gun runners and unregistered sellers stay away from the district. At the very least, they stay very hidden. With the immense traffic going through Chakana every day, vendors of all sorts have set up shop anywhere they can. This includes expansive storefronts; small, open air kiosks set up on the plaza; or hidden locations in back alleys.

FACTIONS OF INTEREST

POLECATS [STREET GANG]

Led by someone who goes by the name Xandera, The Polecats occupy Los Barrancos, a neighborhood of the East Tenements. The members are often considered overeager as they mark every building within their turf; inside and out. They would be taken more seriously if it weren't for the comically styled polecat tag made to resemble the Root towering over Chakana. The gang is a relative new-comer to the area. Their counterfeit and smuggling work isn't as good as established OrgCrime groups but the services are cheap.

SEA & NATA

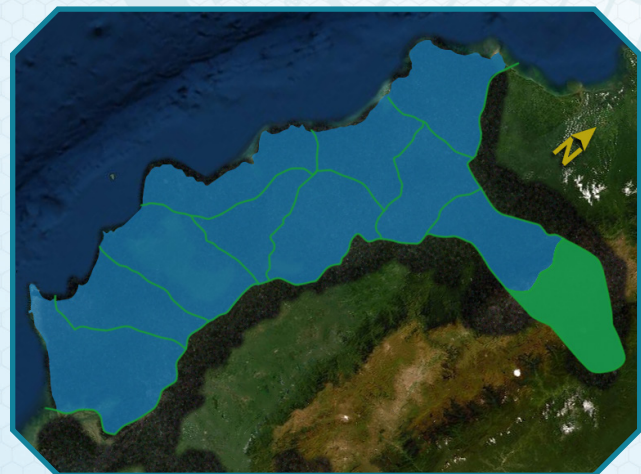

The jurisdictions of The Space Elevator Authority and New Angeles Transit Authority overlap at the base of the Root. The SEA monitors and investigates each podbean car Up and Down Stalk. New Angeles Transit Authority covers the tubelev lines and hopper tunnels that bleed into the Root as well as the areas leading into the Plaza. Occasionally, both organizations will band together in particularly intense high security situations; even to the point of calling in military forces, PriSec groups, or other mercenaries looking for a payday.

COST OF LIVING

With the large volume of tourism and standard to which the district holds itself, the Disenfranchistos of the Undercity have a tough time making ends meet. While the middle class working the shops and security have it much more comfortably. With the right sized credstick, though, anyone can get what they want in Chakana.

BASE DE CAYAMBE

Where Chakana and the Beanstalk are the pristine body of next year's hopper model, Base de Cayambe is the hoverfoil rotors under the hood to keep it running. The Base doesn't profit nearly as much as Chakana off Jack's Beanstalk but rather from whatever traffic drips down into the district. With a severe lack of NAPD presence, most residents live by a 'see something, do nothing' mantra.

NEO-BROADWAY

Watts-Watson Industrial Solutions is in the process of rebuilding this area in central Chakana. The majority of the work done is still made up of only half done construction sites and inferior housing.

OLD TOWN

Old Town is the budget stop for anyone on their way up or down the Beanstalk. Affordable hotels are sprinkled throughout the subdistrict as well as family owned restaurants trying to make a living. The Base de Cayambe NAPD Precinct stands tall but doesn't have the numbers present to keep Los Scorpiones from running the show.

MERCADO BAJA

Known as "Low Market" for it's almost ground level elevation, Mercado Baja is a giant unlicensed bazaar. Sure, some vendors are legit and stay away from contraband items, but that isn't where the creds are. Hundreds of street vendors and shops sprawl out for a few kilometers. If there is something you need, you're sure to find it here- for the right price.

Mercado Baja is the largest market of its kind. Almost anything can be found here. Some body mod shops like Ani-Ink and Famous Faces offer relatively non-invasive cybernetic and Gmod enhancements.

LOS SCORPIONES

This OrgCrime faction offers their protection to many of the smaller businesses in the Base. They consider this their own turf and will defend it if need be. NAPD District Commissioner Sarah Watson considers her precinct to be like an outpost in enemy territory.

CONSTRUCTION CORPS

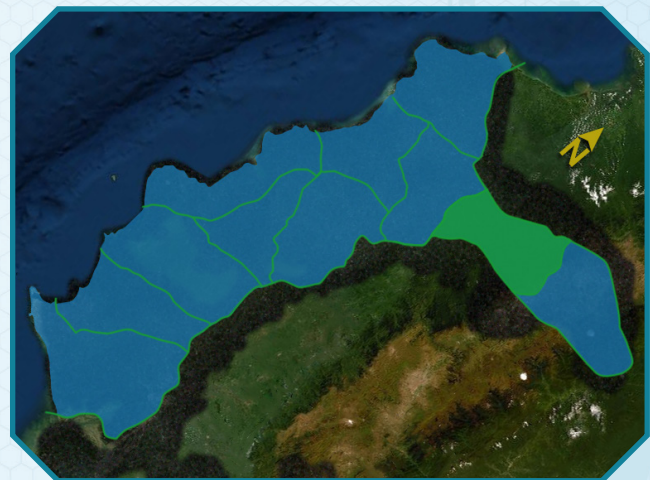

After Weyland Consortium finished the Beanstalk, Watts-Watson Industrial Solutions bought up the leftover assets and remains as the area's urban development giant. WWIS and other smaller companies have hundreds of unfinished or abandoned projects in varying stages of completion.

COST OF LIVING

Base de Cayambe is sort of the little brother to Chakana. Not many Risties will admit they live here and instead would suggest their estate is "just a ways down from the Root." Since the Base is always under construction, though, it allows for most middle class and even disenfranchistos to make a more than comfortable living. At least compared to most other districts.

RUTHERFORD

The face of New Angeles to the rest of the world. Plaza-level Rutherford's beautiful array of arcologies, star-scrapers, and elevated holoparks make up a mostly crime-free and clean area for the rich and famous (and countless celebrity-seeker tourists). Below plaza-level, though, the undercity is no different than anywhere else in New Angeles. Most of the working class live down below, working in factories and processing centers for the socially elevated or on the plaza-level itself at any number of high-end stores.

BROADCAST SQUARE

AKA "The heart of New Angeles". Completely off-limits to vehicles. Massive starscrapers block out the sun but the array of vidscreen and holo projections light up everything all day. Flanked by NBN Headquarters, sits Central Plaza. This raised portion of Broadcast Square has been home to more than a fair share of protests and demonstrations in the past.

DOWNTOWN RUTHERFORD

Extending downward from Broadcast Square is the rest of Downtown Rutherford. The majority of traffic here is still pedestrians though vehicle traffic is allowed here. A massive control tower juts up past the rest of Rutherford for city-wide flight control. The pro-human employment agency Humanity Labor also has its main offices here.

ITEM RARITY MODIFIERS

The heavy foot traffic of Broadcast Square brings with it a huge selection of popup kiosks and other stores. A heavy desire by the populace to be just as beautiful as the actors on the holovids generates a lot of buzz on the newest fashion, personal tech, and even designer cybernetics.

RUTHERFOR RARITY MODIFIERS

NBN

"Someone is Always Watching." Their slogan is just as true for the public watching their programming as it is for the media megacorp watching their audience. Where the majority of other megacorps make their income on products, NBN makes it from content. Thousands of holo vid programs and edutainment videos all trace their lineage to the same 3 yellow letters.

HUMANITY LABOR

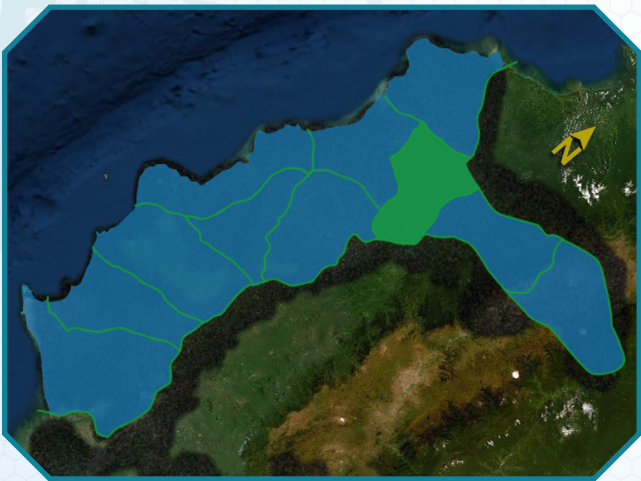

Centered in Downtown Rutherford, Humanity Labor is an employment agency and union with strong political ties. Humanity Labor has always made it apparent they hold no relation to the anti-simulant extremist group Human First; though it is painfully obvious they are silently on the same team.

COST OF LIVING

Rutherford is an overall average district as far as equality goes. Much of the working class is employed by NBN. Working in the offices or even the streets across the city reporting back on anything the company deems important for that day.

ESMERALDAS

Esmeraldas tends to be 2nd or 3rd tier to the other districts economically and culturally. This puts a bad taste in the mouths of any Ristie looking to move here. Which isn't a problem as it is more than successful enough for millions of working- and middle-class families. Esmeraldas is known for its music, restaurants, seaside resorts, and most famously, being the birthplace of plenty of sport legends.

THE STREETS

A very closely knit community, officially named the "San Miguel Residential Subdistrict," the area got its name from gridwork style streets of mostly residential condo-habs and houses. Residents here rely on each other for protection rather than the NAPD. Even the local gangs follow these unwritten rules and police themselves should anyone step out of line.

HISTORIC ESMERALDAS

"Historic" is a local joke as nearly all the original buildings were razed to make way for starscrapers. Unique restaurants, charming parks, and civic centers are the lifeblood of this subdistrict. The main vein of this lifeblood is the Blue Sun Stadium. One of the most advanced and largest sporting stadiums in the world.

THE MALECÓN

This subdistrict is at the Northernmost top of New Angeles. The Malecón was originally built as a giant pier stretching into the Pacific Ocean littered with homes and entertainment facilities but construction was never completed. Now this name refers to the neighborhood north of Historic Esmeraldas and is home to the poorest and highest-crime neighborhood in the district.

ITEM RARITY MODIFIERS

Seeing as the majority of the citizens in the district make a living with their hands, Esmeraldas has become a Mecca for the do-it-yourselfer as well as anyone looking for the best selection of work apparel. Since the median income is quite a bit lower than the rest of the city, most Esmeraldans cannot afford fancy Cybernetics and Genetic Modifications.

ESMERALDAS RARITY MODIFIERS

WEYLAND CONSORTIUM

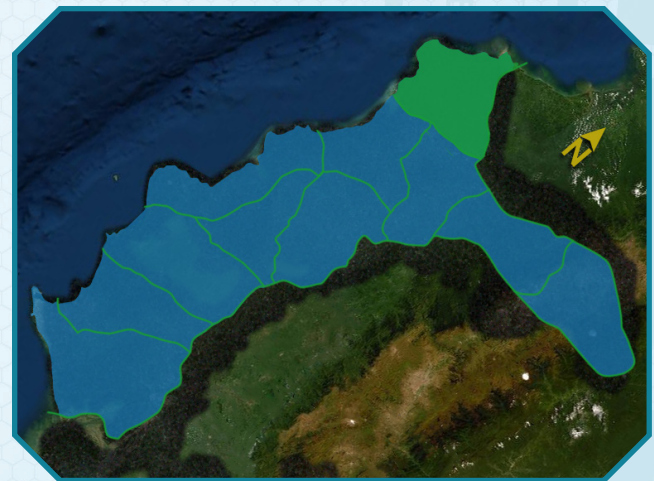

Weyland built the Blue Sun Stadium. Since the stadium is one of, if not the largest, money maker in Esmeraldas, the company has chosen to stay and commit a large portion of its efforts (advertisement or otherwise) here in the district. With the majority of the citizens here being of the working-class, Weyland also employs a lot of Esmeraldans who have relocated across the city.

COST OF LIVING

With most Risties uninterested in the area, Esmeraldas is one of the more down-to-Earth places for most other social classes to call home. The district has plenty of blue collar work and even more middle-class events and entertainment destinations. Therefore, most New Angelinos that call Esmeraldas home live very comfortable, though admittedly not very lavish, lifestyles.

NIHONGAI

Bordered by Rutherford's financial district, Laguna Velasco's government center, and the Mache-Chindul Ecological Preserve, Nihongai's location itself has proven to provide the district with a solid income. It is often referred to as "Little Nippon" due to its large number of Japanese heritage denizens and its many architectural and cultural similarities with Jinteki's original home, NeoTokyo.

JINTEKI BIOTECH

Jinteki Biotech occupies an immense space of over two square kilometers instead of a single archology. Exquisite gardens and meticulously maintained paths artfully connect every building of the campus grounds. However, they take security very seriously and will protect their investments, physical and digital, with absolute retribution.

THE TOURIST QUARTER

Appealing equally to tourists and residents after work, this subdistrict is the cultural center of Nihongai. With dining clubs decorated in an elegant Japanese style, the Shinseibutsu Zoological Garden with teacup animal petting zoos, elaborate bathhouses and more. And for those seeking a bit more of a thrill, there are undercity pachinko parlors - a word of caution though, as these gambling halls are most likely run by the local Yakuza chapters.

THE RESIDENTIAL QUARTER

Being more practical in its appearance than the Tourist Quarter, this area houses many of the residents of Nihongai as well as Jinteki's clone barracks. The clone barracks are just below Plaza-level and therefore make the rest of the area around them the nicest and safest of Nihongai's undercity.

NEW AKIBA QUARTER

The streets here are lit bright with holo-ads and stalls selling amateur-made or illegal tech. If you're looking for something outside of the norm of Nihongai, look no further than Ac'd DrOp. Originally called The Mailroom, this bar was a place for couriers to share stories and job leads. Since it abruptly changed management, it has quickly become a hangout for adrenaline junkies in search of their next job or easy fix - or both.

ITEM RARITY MODIFIERS

Nihongai is the home of Jinteki HQ and with that comes access to a wide array of genetic and technological advances. It's no secret that the Yakuza has a solid foothold on many of the goings-ons of the district. And for those who know where to ask, there are certainly a few creds saved when looking for your next customization.

JINTEKI

If a clone was produced in New Angeles, you can be sure it was made by this biomedical titan. Company reps are often regarded as proper and coldly polite. Their connection to the Yakuza may just be New Angeles' worst kept secret.

YAKUZA

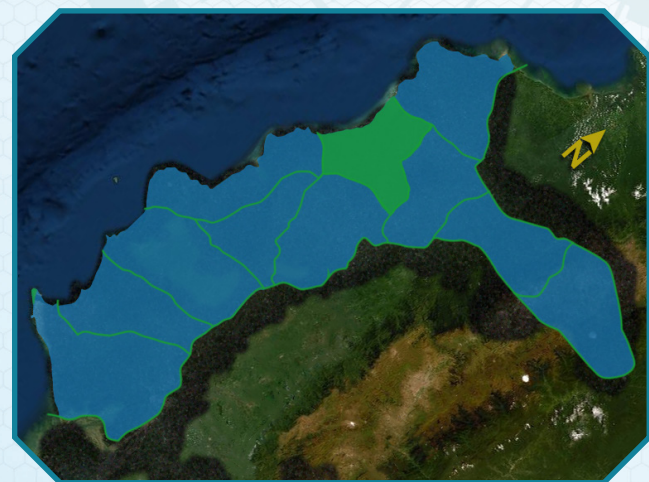

The Yakuza specializes in high-tech and white-collar crime. They subscribe to a centuries old organizational structure. Though they have their hands in business across the city, their best known venture is in Nihongai's undercity pachinko parlors.

COST OF LIVING

Nihongai tends to hold itself to an unwritten yet pretty strict code of social ethics. The consistency in which these ethics are applied varies greatly. This leads to a heavy lean towards wealth and class in the district. Even the disenfranchistos of Nihongai tend to live a little better than the rest of the city.

LAGUNA VELASCO

Built around the Velsasco Ibarra reservoir of yesteryear, Laguna Velasco is the physical and political center of the city. Home to the societal elite, Laguna hosts some of the city's most lavish and expensive opera houses, concert halls, museums, art galleries, and hotels. Though there are still its fair share of less-than-desirables, the powers that be in Laguna Velasco go to great lengths to hide this blemish on their otherwise pristine district.

DOWNTOWN

This district's natural beauty and location made the most sense to move the City Hall here from its former location in Base de Cayambe. This sub district is home to civic hubs and governmental buildings towering over the natural landscape of the reservoir.

LAKESIDE

Bordering the Velasco Ibarra reservoir, this subdistrict sprawls hundreds of kilometers around the waterfront. An intricate maze of lavish mansions make it the place to be for ristics who want to live a life of luxury all year round.

LEVY UNIVERSITY

New Angeles is home to many schools and universities, but almost none of them can hold a plasma cutter to the LU. Ranked among the top 10 universities in the world for 16 years, Levy University is like a whole city in and of itself. It is most notably known for its Artificial Intelligence program as well as its top ranked Network Architecture department.

ITEM RARITY MODIFIER

Laguna Velasco is a district for the rich- and they won't let you forget that. Anything they consider as inelegant or of poor taste is removed as soon as possible. Whether that is contraband or a family who cannot afford rent.

RISTIES

The upper echelon of Laguna wants to rid the district of anyone below them- by any means necessary. Those who find themselves late on rent will often find themselves relieved of said debt, as well as homeless.

NAPD

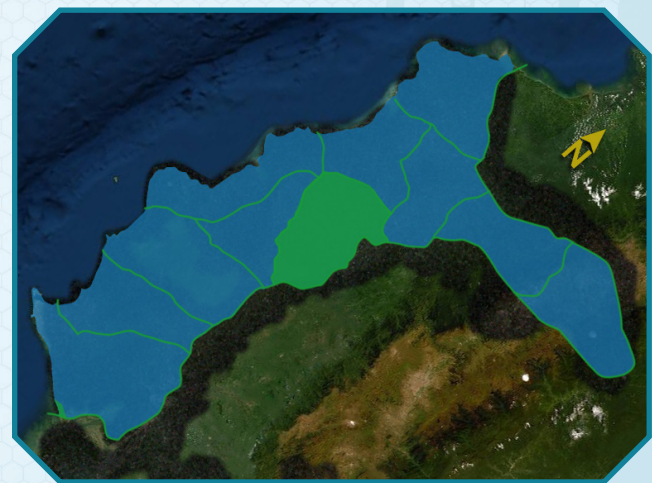

The NAPD may have multiple precinct houses in every district, but the New Angeles Police Department Headquarters, or 1st Precinct, is found some 100 meters off shore in the lake in Laguna Velasco. This location lends itself to reinforce security protocols that rival much of BosWash or Beijing.

COST OF LIVING

Telling someone you live in Laguna Velasco will certainly turn some jealous heads. Even if you're working to service those higher than you- or worse yet trying to steal from them.

MANTA

This district is most likely the reason why you bought this tour guide. Manta is the definitive tourist destination. Where everyone comes together™. The district is home to over 100 kilometers of splendid beaches, scenic landscapes, luxury hotels, and upscale attractions. Beyond the beaches, though, lies a strong business subdistrict as well as working class warehouse district. The low elevation, and therefore lack of a prominent undercity, leads to Manta being thought as much more egalitarian than other districts.

THE STRIP

Just about anything luxurious, outrageous, or extravagant can be found in this row of hotels and resorts near the beaches. People of all walks of life come to relax and have fun at all hours of the day. At any given moment, The Strip is the biggest party in the district.

BUSINESS SUBDISTRICT

Placed just beyond The Strip, sits a maze of personal residences and business offices. Many corps and opportunists believe Manta will become a new hotbed of tech innovation. Young technocrats can find employment in places like Heureka to dream up tomorrow's nice big thing. Many corporations use the services of I/O Secure Data, Inc to work on and hide their newest R&D projects.

WAREHOUSE SUBDISTRICT

The Warehouse Subdistrict houses most of those who cannot afford or care not to live nearer The Strip. This area sits in the shadows of the Business Subdistrict and is therefore out of the public eye. But that doesn't suggest it is a rough or bad area to call home by any means.

ITEM RARITY MODIFIERS

Where everyone comes together.™ All walks of life work and play together in this Ocean-side paradise. Most general goods are widely available on nearly every corner. COST OF LIVING

As mentioned above, Manta is a great place to live across the board. Most everyone that calls this district home is financially comfortable and ultimately very satisfied. Manta truly is the only district in New Angeles in which you can bump elbows with anyone and know they'll turn around with a smile and a handshake.

RABOTGOROD

Founded as Robotnik Gorod or “Worker’s city,” Rabotgorod started off as a haven for refugees of the Russian Federation. During the Project Days, the subdistrict was home to thousands of low-income workers living in sub-standard living conditions. The creation of android labor soon changed Rabotgorod into a sprawling cityscape of clone-tels and bioroid storage facilities. With the majority of New Angeles’ android population living here, much of the general public refers to this district as Robotgorod.

CHONE

City planners and other landowners have attempted to re-label this area as “Green Valley” to improve its public image. Newly planted bioplastic “trees” line the sidewalks. EverGreen grass and g-modded bushes add some drastically needed color that is missing from much of Rabotgorod.

SCRAPPER’S SQUARE

This small lot sandwiched between two abandoned apartment buildings is often full of drunkards and petty criminals spouting off anti-simulant rhetoric. A large pro-simulant rights graffiti artist has tagged one of the buildings with a large art piece in some resistant paint. This piece ironically looks over all of those who can’t stand androids.

WORKER’S WALL

The site of an old worker strike, and now a day labor pickup point. Androids and natural workers alike use this as an opportunity to find good work or even shady under-the-table opportunities for OrgCrime groups.

ITEM RARITY MODIFIERS

The people of Rabotgorod pride themselves on being self sufficient in the wake of android labor. With a little luck and a favor or two, most items can be obtained outside the normal distribution process. As long as you don’t mind your purchase looking a bit industrial in aesthetics but also quality, The Worker’s City may have what you need.

TRI-MAF

The Mafia has allegedly been working with the NAPD to cut down on reported crime in the area. The NAPD doesn’t want the already high criminal activity to get any higher, and the Tri-Maf don’t want the cops breathing down their necks. So this seems to work out.

HUMANITY FIRST

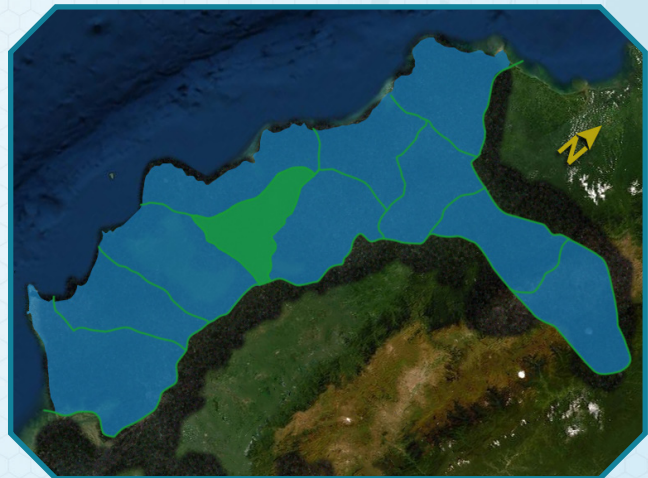

This human-supremacist group opposes the use and even the existence of android labor. Many members believe simulants are to blame for thousands of human workers being unemployed. Human First has been raising awareness of their cause and have taken their xenophobic message to Robotgorod.

COST OF LIVING

Rabotgorod is more skewed towards a low cost of life than any other in New Angeles. The majority of the residence here are clones or bioroids working middle-class jobs across the city. This leaves even the ritziest places very affordable compared to the rest of the city.

LA COSTA

La Costa is the agricultural center of New Angeles. Ecuador's climate allows the region unmatched fertility across the world. The reality of the ever-expanding city puts immense pressure on the district to replace agricultural facilities with more housing, commercial properties, and colossal archaeologies.

TOURIST ATTRACTIONS

La Costa's beautiful landscapes and sprawling agroplexes bring in a large amount of tourism. Waterfalls, ecological preserves, water-borne nightclubs, beach resorts and a g-mod vineyard are just a few ways denizens of a concrete jungle like New Angeles can experience the rare instances of genuine nature in its carefully cultivated state.

AGRICULTURAL LOCATIONS

Submerged desalination plants and water storage facilities employ mostly bioroid workers. The rest of La Costa is taken up by farmland and larger agroplexes. Bio- and agri-corporations have also banded together on facilities utilized for water-purification.

ITEM RARITY MODIFIERS

La Costa is a district largely based in commercial agriculture. The people living here covet the preservation (and even the extortion) of nature and its resources over most barbaric forms of confrontation. The occasional contraband item can be found if you have the nose for it. Most merchants in the area would find it too unnecessarily risky to do that sort of business.

LA COSTA RARITY MODIFIERS

ITEM CLASS	MOD
Weapons, Armor, Explosives & Ordinances	+2
Carrying & Storage, Tools & General Gear	-1

FACTIONS OF INTEREST

Though many structures accommodate the influx of tourists, some people like to call La Costa home. But that comes with a cost. Living space is the most expensive commodity in New Angeles. And La Costa can offer some ristics something even better; space, with a view.

AGRICORPS/BIOCORPS

A variety of corporations use the district's resources for sustenance for the rest of the city. With fisheries offering g-modded seafood, water storage and purification facilities moving and cleaning wastewater, and a cornucopia of plant based farms and operations are bound to bring in a great profit for anyone signing the checks.

LOS SCORPIONES

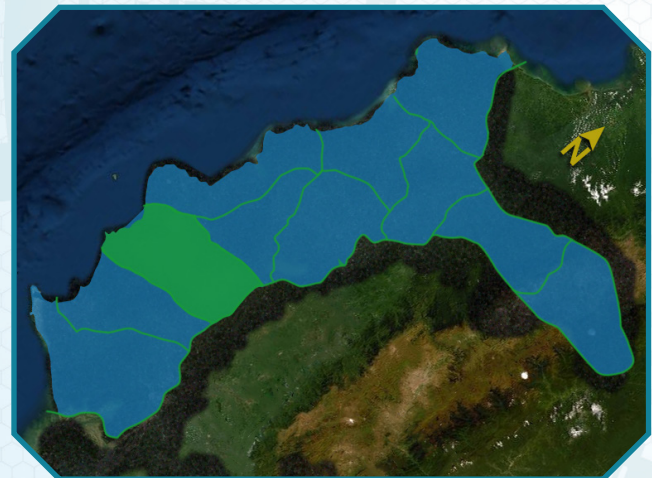

It is said that this enigmatic OrgCrime group often uses bunkers hidden in the foliage of the rainforest as drug or gun running drop off point. The gang has occupied the undeveloped rainforest in La Costa since their inception. Some claim they are looking to sell this area to neighboring corporations. Others think they just want to be left alone.

COST OF LIVING

There is plenty of work available to a working class in La Costa. Many agricultural facilities use android labor for some of the more dangerous working conditions. And with the high cost of living large, some ristics even find a way to afford a life of luxury in the least populated district of New Angeles.

QUINDE

The former forests that made up this land were razed years ago to make resources for the Beanstalk. Once construction was completed though, Quinde quickly became home to factories for various industries. Multiple labor droughts and eventually the influx of android labor led Quinde to become the city's centerpoint for anti-simulant protests. Multiple pro-simulant groups have kept the aggressive violence to more of a dull roar.

GOLEM GROVE

Haas-Bioroid owns the majority of the Salanguillo Industrial Subdistrict, known locally as Golem Grove. Most of the businesses in this area focus on tech production like electronics, machinery, and energy production.

THE MEAT MARKET

Where HB runs the majority of the Salanguillo, Jinteki owns the Pedro Carbo Industrial Subdistrict. The "Meat Market" contains possibly the largest clone-production facility in the world as well as other smaller businesses trying to make a living.

COLONCHE

This smaller industrial subdistrict lacks the oversight of a large megacorporation like the Big Four. Consequently, the majority of the facilities here struggle to get by. The undercity and plaza level tend to blur together in this rundown area of Quinde.

ITEM RARITY MODIFIERS

Just outside of the more corporate businesses of Golem Grove sits a slew of back-alley practices. Many bioroids will go to these unsanctioned "chop shops" to upgrade, trade, or sell certain parts. With such a large population of anti-simulant residents living in Quinde, most shops find it unprofitable to carry tech or computer-related goods.

ANTI-SIMULANT GROUPS

A multitude of local businesses like Arms and Hammers cater to the more hands on anti-simulant groups. Even in Quinde's cold war between pro- and anti-simulant groups it's possible to make a profit in weaponizing those more extreme individuals.

JINTEKI

The Shinchoku factory pumps out more clones than any other production facility in the city. Smaller Copy Centers are also scattered throughout the district.

HAAS-BIOROID

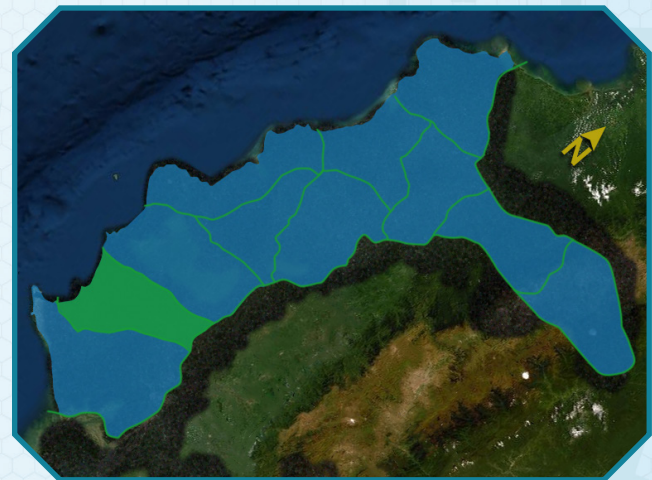

HB employs plenty of workers throughout Quinde. Simulant and natural alike. Along with other pro-simulant groups like Jinteki, Humanity Labor, and the NAPD, the megacorp embraces peaceful tactics to potentially end the tension between themselves and anti-simulant organizations.

COST OF LIVING

With such a heavy android workforce presence, many middle-class workers find it more difficult to make ends meet here as opposed to other districts. Likewise, even the workers of the undercity need to work a bit harder to live their lives.

GUAYAQUIL

What started off as the center of economic prosperity shortly turned into a husk of forgotten purpose. The separation between plaza and undercity levels is much more obvious than in other districts. The two ways of life are separated by neighborhoods rather than by elevation. Though run down, Guayaquil is the most populous of all the districts. Many homeless that are chased out or forced to move from other districts choose to make a life here. And even more have called Guayaquil home for generations.

ANTIGUO GUAYAQUIL

For years, this area was built and rebuilt up to be the “city of the future.” Its proximity to the Beanstalk meant it was eventually left behind to rot. Antiguo Guayaquil looks like every stereotype of an undercity wrapped into one decrepit locale.

NUEVO GUAYAQUIL

Nuevo Guayaquil looks as though it hasn’t given up on it’s dream. But instead of tearing down and rebuilding, developers here have taken to filling in old locations with hard-foam and building on top. Leaving the undercity level almost non-existent in this subdistrict.

THE WATERWAYS

The inhabitants here are always on the move, whether by foot or boat. Though they bring life and sustenance, The Waterways also provide an environment for disease. Especially with the rampant population in Guayaquil.

ITEM RARITY MODIFIERS

The majority of the population in Guayaquil lives in similar living conditions that the poorest of the poor in other districts. Firearms and explosives, though prevalent enough in the area, are by no means as technologically advanced as they could be.

WEYLAND CONSORTIUM

Jack Weyland Arcology was one of the first arcologies built in New Angeles. At the top of this aged structure sits the Palace at Guayaquil, a hotel of increasingly more expensive floors as the elevation rises.

ORGCRIME

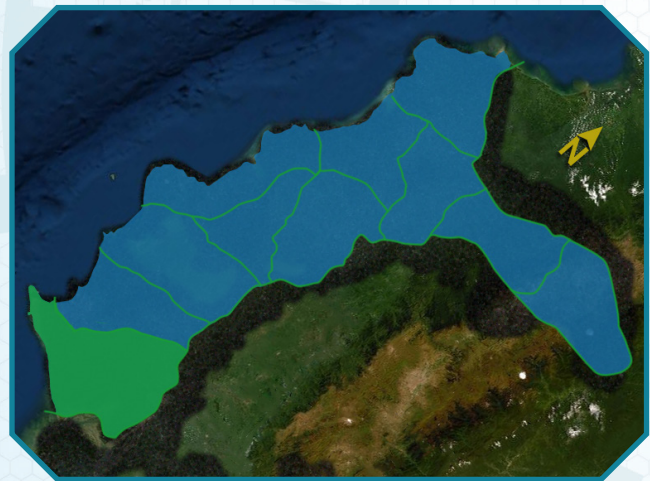

An assortment of the big hitters have their hands in something throughout this somewhat politically forgotten district. Though it isn’t all bad illegal enterprises. Much of the Black Market in this area is made up of clean water, power and infrastructure repair, g-modded food, and medicines.

COST OF LIVING

What started off as one of the more prestigious districts, quickly fell behind and never caught up. Most of the population here is in the middle class or lower. Just looking at the obvious state of things in the region shows how popular this district is with the upper echelon of society.

MIDWAY STATION

Roughly the halfway point between Earth and Challenger Planetoid. Traffic through Midway is nonstop and always busy. The way Midway was constructed requires passengers to exit at the station and board another beanpod to continue their journey. Beanpods travelling Up Stalk are launched from here to their destination with calculated and precise accuracy.

THE BEANSTALK

Split between Midway Station Down and Midway Station Up, a vast majority of the traffic coming and going through Midway Station is due to The Beanstalk.

COMMERCIAL ZONES

For those who have some time to kill before continuing Down or Up Stalk, there is plenty to do at the Station. There is Casino Grande, condos, restaurants, a luxury hotel, and even NBN has a branch office here.

ITEM RARITY MODIFIERS

With such a necessity for high security, the SEA keeps a keen eye on everything coming in and going out of Midway Station. It takes a bit more effort (or a lot of creds) to get anything past them without notice.

NBN

The branch office takes up about half of the station's facilities. A ton of broadcasting equipment is scattered throughout and high security is a must. Since they are the most prominent corporation in Midway Station by far, they have quite a bit of control as to what residents and tourists can enjoy.

COST OF LIVING

Most of the business that runs through Midway Station is passerbys heading up to or down from Challenger Planetoid. That being said, most work found here is in the service industry. Middle class workers as well as Disenfranchistos find a fairly comfortable living here, given the relative solitude from the rest of New Angeles. A healthy amount of ristics also live in Midway but the majority of the rich just use it as an escape from their wealthy lives down stalk.

CHALLENGER PLANETOID

This massive rock is the last stop on the buckyweave tether of the Beanstalk. Beyond the Planetoid is open space. All the buildings here are placed in such a way for the Planetoid to stay balanced. Often nicknamed “The Castle” as a reference to the fairytale of Jack’s Beanstalk. The majority of the services provided at The Castle are to aid travel to and from Luna. That said, there are plenty of tourists who venture up stalk but cannot afford to travel further.

NEARSHORE FACILITIES

Nearside is host to most of the commercial and residential facilities. The gravitational pull of the tether imposes some feeling of artificial gravity pulling you towards Farside. Consequently, the view of Earth “above” creates an awe-inspiring vista and also a sought after destination for real estate.

FARSHORE FACILITIES

The Farside of the Challenger Planetoid hosts some commercial but mostly industrial facilities. With the finite working space of a rock tied to Earth, many businesses and plants work closely together or even in the same workplace.

ITEM RARITY MODIFIERS

The Challenger Planetoid is the last stop before heading out into open space. Weapons in general are frowned upon here and rightfully so. To have a firearm discharge this far from Earth could have catastrophic repercussions. With all the work happening outside the The Castle walls, a plethora of oxygenated suits are readily available for maintenance workers.

UNION WORKERS

Groups of dockworkers and miners fill the same role as undercity street gangs, fighting over territory and jobs. Many workers are only there to work for a few months before shipping back downstalk due to the hazardous repercussions of working in the dangerous environment of space. This means workers are not afraid to get their hands dirty if it means they can go back to work the next day.

SEA

Space Elevator Authority. The SEA manages and provides the security for the Castle, just like it does for the rest of the Beanstalk. Though The Castle lacks a true undercity, there is still more than enough criminal activity to keep the SEA busy. They often see anything from petty theft to organized criminal enterprises attempting to cash in on the He-3 deliveries coming from Luna.

COST OF LIVING

The general cost of living for any social class is greatly affected by living on a small rock in space. Plenty of working-class folk work temporarily to bring back what they made down stalk. The richest of the rich will often visit Castle Club or other luxurious destinations. And the truly rich will lay down roots and spend a cool credit on the best view this side of Luna.

HEINLEIN

The often overlooked 12th district of New Angeles. This has come with great contention (and a war) as the people who inhabit the domes, tunnels, and stations of the Moon feel as though they should be an independent entity. Though a representative of Heinlein sits on the NA city council, the district manager acts as a de facto mayor for the colony.

HARRIMAN DOME

One of the oldest domes, Harriman Dome was built originally for entrepreneurs and business startups. Now it is home to a variety of eclectic businesses attracting its fair share of out-of-the-box thinkers.

LUNACENT

At the physical center of Heinlein, Lunacent (AKA Luna Central) hosts a variety of residential complexes, political and administrative compounds, and expansive greenspace. It is often in a sibling rivalry of sorts with Starport Kaguya for the title of cultural heart of Luna.

STARPORT KAGUYA

Starport Kaguya is a bustling gateway for public and private transport in and out of the district and a vast collection of touristy locations. Since the Battle of Kaguya, the area has been massively renovated to better serve those who are traveling through. Though beyond this glitzy facade sits the still rundown, broken, and crime-ridden Docklands.

ITEM RARITY MODIFIERS

Heinlein prides itself on being independent and will often monitor Kaguya and other ports heavily to maintain that claim. For this reason, many tools used for skulduggery are often confiscated before reaching the hands of the Luna residents. The lack of oxygen outside of the domes on Luna makes for an interesting shift in the demand for combustion-less weaponry.

LOONIES

The name for anyone born and raised on the Moon. Some attempt to use the term as a derogatory slur, but the residents of Luna have taken it as a proud branding. Loonies include all walks of life from the law-abiding citizens to the rebel anarchists that want nothing more than to be independent of their distant Earther "leaders".

HEINLEIN AUTHORITY

As a department of New Angeles' Heinlein District government, the Heinlein Authority regulates all space traffic around the district. This includes coordinating ship departures and arrivals, logging records and keeping track of private, commercial, and industrial flight paths. Even though they are partnered up with SXC (U.S. Space Expeditionary Corps) and NAPD, even the Authority has issues with jurisdiction just outside of the district.

COST OF LIVING

One of Heinlein's biggest obstacles to the pursuit of happiness is living space, even more so than New Angeles. Heinlein is at the mercy of the established domes and subsurface living quarters. Even the richest floors of the residential quarters are "crowded" by NA standards. Though there is a somewhat rundown area of town that most Disenfranchistos claim as their own, the Docklands are far too dangerous to live a comfortable life there.
